For this Beturday Gasette. MAKING TRACKS. By REV. HIRAM EDDY, D.D.

then sends the tracks thus made to the Grand-father who returned the following.

On the shore where the ocean's sounding, Where waves have beaten smooth the sand, Little tracks, maiden tracks appearing, Dimple o'er the rippled, sea washed strand With her tender foot that she never put Upon the sand before.

Those little wocks the stranger's making, Slowly making on the foamy shore, Whereon the billows wild are breaking, Are printed there forever, ever more With the tender foot that she never put Upon the sand before.

Those little tracks are an age increasing. Every moment they are many more, On she goes-stepping-stepping-stepping Making tracks a ong the sounding shore, With her tender foot that she never put Upon the sand before.

Those little tracks are aye advancing. Never turning, and return no more Forward march ! onward still she's going, Making tracks along the eternal shore, With her tender foot that she never put Upon the sand before.

Father ! mother ! guide those helpless feet Guide them gen'ly o'er life's shifting sands, When the meadows bloom so fa'r and sweet ; Oh guide with prayer and loving hands The tender foot that was never put Upon the sand before,

We all are marching, never halting, Charging, battling o'er life's sandy plains, Let the tracks that we are making. Tell the dusty, foot-sore, thoughtless trains How to set the foot which they ever put On sands untred before.

Sleep, baby, sleep!
Fond eyes are watching round thy cradle bed,
Your prayers ascend for blushings on thy head;
Fount-ins of love and hope, unknown before,
Waked by that tiny hand, and flowing o'er;
Joys long obscured by clouds of grief and pain,
At tile same gentle touch appear again;
Bad, drooping hearts, have felt thy cheering

Angels of comfort from thine earliest hour!
Sleep, baby, sleep!

Hast not to open those sweet violet eyes
On all the wonders of our slouded skies.—
The wearings of eve, the tell of noon,
Knowledge of good and ill, must come too foot All mortal juys and sorrows, hopes and fears, Walt 'midst the shadows of future years; But now enjoy thy portion calm and blest.— Love deep and tendor—soft and dreamless rest! Sleep, baby, sleep !

Sleep, buty sleep;
We will not look before;—we know that He,
Our risen Lord, was once a child like thee,
And now in Heaven, as while he sojourned her
Still to His heart the "little ones are dear. O, God of love and pity, hear our prayer, --We trust her in the shadow of Thy wings, The last and fair at of our precious things Bleep, buby, sleep !

HAPPINESS. - President Nott, in his wise old age, once took a newly-married pair aside, and said, "I want to give you this advice my children don' try to be happy. Happiness is a shy nymph, and if you chase her you will never catch her. But just go quietly on and do your duty and she will come to you.

Kind bearts are the gardens, Kind thoughts are the roots, Kind words are the blossoms, Kind deeds are the fruits ; Love is the sweet sunshine That warms into life, For only in darkness Grow hatred and strife.

A DIFFERENCE OF TASTE .-- A country of the district as to the subject of a lecture to be given at the institution, the lecturer telegraphed, "A Taste of Naples and Rome. The telegraph made it read, "A Taste of Apples and Rum."

Two men disputing about the pronounciation of the word "either"-one saying it was ee ther, the other it her agreed to refer the matter to the first person they met who happened to be an Irishman, and who counfounded both by delaring, " It's nayther, for its ayther."

How to MAKE A MUSTARD PLASTER. The ordinary way is to mix the mustard with water, temporing it with a little four, but such a plaster as that makes is simply abominable. Before it has half done its work it begins to blister the patient, and leaves him finally with a painful, flayed spot, after having produced far less effect in a beneficial way than was intended.

Now, a mustard plaster degree perer make

OF AUTHORS.

The most learned men are not the most fluent in conversation. Christopher North ridicules a dinner table distinguished by the literary type of its guests. Even poets, he says, "are a salky set, and as gruffly and grimly silent as it they had the toothache or something the matter wi' their inside." Sir Walter Scott could not endure the "little exclusive circles of literary society." He often complained, says Jacox, "of the real dullness of parties where each guest arrived under the im-plied and tact obligation of exhibiting some extraordinary powers of talk or w't. I have heard Guziot talk, and his words flow as readily as if they were in his mem-ory and not to be found for the occasion. Guizot says of Gibbon that his great conversational defect was a studied ar-rangement of his words—that he talked ike a book. M. de Tocqueville was remarkable fo the purity of his language in the most familiar conversation.

Emerson is one of the profoundest think-ers, but he is they simple in his conversa-tion; he is child-like in his simplicity, or to us his own word, speaking of another, he is "grandly simple." I have listened to so great there is so little on the surface, get that fittle so beautiful,

The most learned woman it was ever my good fortune to meet, and probably the most learned woman who ever lived, was Mrs. Somerville, the mathematicien, astronomer and philosopher. In fact she was elegelopedic. She has but recently died, at the age of about ninety.

In 1853 I met her in Florence; she wa then 73 years old, sal in the prime of life and mental vigor. Her bust in martle side of Sir Isaac Newton's, and no one more justly deserves the honer. Mesers POX C.PLAU JURY TRIAL IN AUSTRIA.-The new oceedure, under which the institution of trial by jury is to be introduced general paper says that, in reply to a question from ly in all criminal cases, will come into force the lecture committee from the chief town on the let of January. A new regulation of the district as to the subject of a lecture on the subject for the use of public prosecutors, has just been issued by the Minister of Justice. In this regulation it is laid down (CAWLEY & STRYKER'S, as a fundamental principle that public pro-secutors should not take up the position as counsel against the accused, but that it is their duty to consider with his favor. The Minister next points out faset to the chespest. All styles and qualities, that averything which might have the appearance of partiality toward individuals or toward this or that society, should be carefully avoided.
